MALBEC

Alluvia Vineyard in Gualtallary, Tupungato, Uco Valley

VINEYARDS

The Alluvia vineyard is located in Gualtallary, Uco Valley, at 1,350 meters above the sea level. This head-pruned vineyard is set on the stream bed, and its soil contains medium-size alluvial rocks covered with calcium carbonate patinas intermingled with sand and chalk enamel. The soil is nutrient-poor – with organic matter of almost zero – and is well-drained. The weather is cool during the day and cold at night. Sustainable agricultural practices have aways been employed to manage this vineyard.

WINEMAKING

Grapes are hand-harvested in 20-kilo plastic boxes from late March to early April. A pre-fermentation cold maceration takes place to preserve the primary grape aromas. The alcoholic fermentation takes place with native yeast at a low temperature. Aging takes place in 50% new French oak barrels for 20 months.

TASTING NOTES

Intense and deep violet-black color. Aromatically, it stands out for its great complexity – with aromas of blueberries, blackberries and raspberries – accompanied by mineral aromas of chalk and graphite. The palate is well-structured and fresh – with balanced acidity and firm, juicy tannins that give way to a persistent finish. Long aging potential 15+ years.
