

Figure 1: A multi-panel figure showing a scatter plot, a line graph, and a map of the United States. The scatter plot shows a positive correlation between two variables. The line graph shows a fluctuating trend over time. The map shows the location of the study area in the western United States.