

The first part of the text discusses the importance of education in a society. It mentions that education is the key to progress and that it helps people to think for themselves. The text also talks about the role of teachers and how they should be trained. It says that teachers should be able to inspire their students and help them to learn by themselves.

The second part of the text talks about the importance of science and technology. It says that science and technology are the driving forces of progress and that they help us to understand the world around us. It also mentions that science and technology can be used for good or for evil, and that we need to be careful of how we use them.

The third part of the text discusses the importance of art and culture. It says that art and culture are the soul of a society and that they help us to express our emotions and our ideas. It also mentions that art and culture can be used to bring people together and to create a sense of community.

FACTFILE

The first part of the text discusses the importance of education in a society. It mentions that education is the key to progress and that it helps people to think for themselves. The text also talks about the role of teachers and how they should be trained. It says that teachers should be able to inspire their students and help them to learn by themselves.

The second part of the text talks about the importance of science and technology. It says that science and technology are the driving forces of progress and that they help us to understand the world around us. It also mentions that science and technology can be used for good or for evil, and that we need to be careful of how we use them.

The third part of the text discusses the importance of art and culture. It says that art and culture are the soul of a society and that they help us to express our emotions and our ideas. It also mentions that art and culture can be used to bring people together and to create a sense of community.