

PROBATION

Probation is a court-ordered period of supervision for individuals who have been convicted of a crime. It is often used as an alternative to incarceration for first-time offenders or those with minor offenses. The probation officer monitors the individual's behavior, ensures they comply with court orders, and provides support and resources as needed. Violations of probation can result in a return to prison.

REENTRY

Reentry refers to the process of returning to a country after a period of absence. For individuals with criminal records, reentry can be a complex process involving legal requirements, background checks, and potential restrictions on employment and travel. Some countries have specific laws regarding the reentry of individuals with criminal records, and it is often necessary to seek legal advice to navigate these requirements.
