

The diagram illustrates the flow of information or data from a central source to multiple destinations. The central node represents the primary source, and the arrows indicate the direction of flow to various secondary nodes or recipients.

FACTFILE

The diagram illustrates the flow of information or data from a central source to multiple destinations. The central node represents the primary source, and the arrows indicate the direction of flow to various secondary nodes or recipients.