Turtle's Walk

Turtle was walking in the woods. Rabbit hopped on Turtle's back. "Where are you going, Turtle?" he asked.

"I am going to collect some greens for dinner," Turtle said.

"Come play with me first," Rabbit said. "We can play by the river."

Turtle thought about it. Rabbit was so bouncy! He made Turtle tired. But the river did sound fun. "Okay," said Turtle. "I'll go with you."

Rabbit sped off. Turtle walked slowly. By the time he got there, Rabbit was ready to go home. "You're too slow for me, Turtle!" Rabbit called over his shoulder as he hopped away.

Turtle was sad. Then he heard a small voice.

"Turtle!" Snail said. "I'm so glad to see you! I have been walking to the river all morning. I thought everyone would be gone by now. Would you like to play with me?"

Turtle smiled widely. "I'd love to," Turtle said. "Then tonight, you can come over for dinner. I'm making the most delicious greens."
