

Figure 1: A graph illustrating the relationship between variables x and y . The curve shows that as x increases, y increases at a decreasing rate, characteristic of a concave function.

Figure 2: A diagram illustrating a geometric or probabilistic concept, possibly related to the distribution of points or areas within a circle.