

PROBATION

Probation is a court-ordered period of supervision for individuals who have been convicted of a crime. It is often used as an alternative to incarceration for first-time offenders or those with minor offenses. Probation officers monitor the individual's behavior, ensure they comply with court orders, and provide support and resources as needed. Failure to comply with probation terms can result in a return to prison.

REENTRY

Reentry refers to the process of returning to a country after a period of absence, often following a conviction and a period of incarceration. Reentry rules vary by country and can be complex, involving background checks, interviews, and the possibility of being placed in a reentry program. Some individuals may face additional restrictions or penalties upon reentry.
