

Technical drawing showing a perspective view of a long, thin rectangular component with a central hole and a small protrusion on the left side. The drawing includes dimension lines and a small inset showing a detail of the component's end.