

FIG. 1. A complex diagram showing a network of interconnected nodes and lines, possibly representing a flow chart or a data visualization. The diagram is oriented vertically on the page. It features several clusters of nodes, some connected by straight lines and others by curved paths. The nodes are represented by small circles or squares. The overall structure is dense and intricate, with many branches and connections. The diagram is enclosed in a rectangular border.