

The diagram shows a cross-section of a stem with vascular bundles arranged in a ring. Each bundle consists of xylem (labeled 'x') and phloem (labeled 'p'). The xylem is on the inner side of the bundle, and the phloem is on the outer side. This arrangement is characteristic of a secondary growth stem.

FALCETILE

The diagram shows a cross-section of a stem with vascular bundles arranged in a ring. Each bundle consists of xylem (labeled 'x') and phloem (labeled 'p'). The xylem is on the inner side of the bundle, and the phloem is on the outer side. This arrangement is characteristic of a secondary growth stem.