GAME RULES

HOW TO PLAY

- Each player will roll the dice before the race starts to determine who goes first. The player with the highest roll will go first and counter clockwise from the winning roll. In case of a tie, there will be a roll off until a winner is determined.
- Players will take turns rolling the dice. The numbers on the rolled dice determine which horse number will move up one spot up on the horsetrack. Players will keep rolling the dice until a horse crosses the finish line.
- It is recommended that simple poker chips be used for wagers during game play. Poker chips or fake toy play money (not included) can represent the wagers and players can choose the amount of chips or toy money is required by each player. Gambling with real money is not condoned.

(Players do not get to pick their horse)

Before each race starts, Players will agree to the wager for the race and put the wager in a pile on the side of the racetrack. Players will roll the dice to determine which horse they will own for the upcoming race. If the same number comes up after that horse is already claimed, the player will roll the dice until an available horse number comes up on the dice. Up to 11 players can race at one time. If you do not have all 11 players to participate, there are two ways you can handle the extra horses that are not owned.

· HEALTHY SCRATCH RULE -

If you choose to play by the healthy scratch rule, simply remove the horses that have not been chosen by a player. They will not be a part of the race. If their numbers come up, they do not count.

· HOUSE PLAYS RULE -

If you choose to play by the "house plays" rule, all horses will participate in the race. All horses that were not selected by the real players will be owned by the "house" If any of the horses owned by the house win, the house will collect the ante from all players and will transfer over to the next race. This game rule could get very interesting and extend game play for quite a while if the house horses continue to win. Players will choose new horses after each race and the house horses will be the ones not selected after each race.

· UNDERSTANDING THE HORSE TRACK:

True Mathematical Odds Are Built Into this game :

The number of slots in each lane relate to the mathematical odds of rolling that lanes number. (Horse number should always be placed in the same lane number) The higher the odds , the lower number of slots in that respective lane.

The lower the odds , the higher number of slots in that respective lane.

Low odds = Likely

High Odds = Unlikely

· WINNING:

First horse to cross the finish line is the winner!

You can also to choose to have more than one winner per race but that rule must be communicated before the race starts. You may choose to have a 1st , second and third place winner with different purse winnings for each. You can customize this how you would like.

When you have 11 players or a high number of horses racing , it may be best to have 3 winning slots to keep everyone engaged.

HAVE FUN WITH A DAY AT THE TRACK!

NOTE:

Install and pull out all horses into and from their respective starting gates and all slots using care.
