

PROBATION

Probation is a court-ordered period of supervision for individuals who have been convicted of a crime. It is often used as an alternative to incarceration for first-time offenders or those with non-violent offenses. Probation officers monitor the individual's behavior, ensure they comply with court orders, and provide support and resources as needed. Violations of probation can result in a return to prison.

REENTRY

Reentry refers to the process of returning to a country after a period of absence, often following a conviction and a period of incarceration. Reentry laws vary by country and can be complex, involving requirements for visas, waiting periods, and background checks. Some individuals may face additional restrictions or penalties upon reentry, such as limited employment opportunities or restricted travel.
