Katie

Menomonee Falls | Wisconsin

"Create a space that not only pleases the eye but deeply enriches the human experience by channeling the calming, dynamic, and reflective qualities of water. It's about designing spaces that truly breathe, mirroring how water itself infuses life into its surroundings, and fostering areas that encourage introspection and reflection through its powerful association with emotions and intuition."

Alyssa
Troy | Michigan

"I created this flat lay as a personal expression of my love for blending modern and rustic aesthetics. Each element was chosen to reflect a sense of harmony between two seemingly contrasting styles. The soft neutral tones and rich natural textures evoke a calming, grounded atmosphere - like a quiet retreat into nature. The contrast is intentional yet gentle, allowing warmth and sophistication to coexist in a way that feels both effortless and welcoming. My goal was to craft a space that's not only visually balanced but emotionally resonant - a cozy, elegant escape where modern design meets rustic charm."

“This flat lay draws inspiration from a reimagined English country lodge, where heritage meets modern refinement. Fluted marble and natural materials evoke timeless elegance, while a moody palette grounds the composition in quiet sophistication. Handcrafted textures lend warmth and authenticity, contrasting beautifully with the contemporary tartan mosaic. The result is a combination that feels both classic and confident, with a distinctly masculine edge.”

CEPPO TILE

"Ceppo tile is a porcelain that imitates Ceppo di Gré, a natural stone found exclusively in Northern Italy. This stone is made up of fragmented minerals naturally embedded in limestone. While it may resemble terrazzo at first glance, Ceppo stands apart with its distinct round, pebble-like aggregates in varying sizes. For those looking to add a unique touch to a space, Ceppo porcelain is an excellent choice. It brings an earthy, organic aesthetic along with the rich texture and natural color of stone."

CULTURAL FUSION

“Cultural Fusion design introduces timeless traditional patterns as a contemporary look while using earthy natural tones with stark colors. This technique is both functional and purposeful, which is largely influenced by the use of tiles and mosaics, turning any room within your home, office building, or commercial space into a work of art & history. It celebrates the beauty of cross-cultural storytelling, where heritage meets innovation to create spaces that are visually rich and deeply meaningful.”

JAPANDI DESIGN

“Japandi is a design concept that combines both Japanese aesthetic and sense of space with neutrality and simplicity. Japandi design emphasizes connection to nature, clean lines, textures, a warm and neutral color palette, and minimal styling. Harmony is the most important characteristic with this style, while still leaving room for the concept of ‘Wabi-Sabi’, a Japanese principle that centers the acceptance of transience and imperfection. In other words, finding beauty in that which is fleeting.”

BLUE: THE NEW NEUTRAL

“Inspired by local Designer, Ashley Oss, blue is the new neutral not only in tile, but also in cabinetry, fabrics, wall coverings, and accessories. Layered textures have been inspiring clients to play with different types of media when it comes to flooring, allowing them to blend marble with a more contemporary porcelain, while also introducing perhaps more traditional shapes, sizes, and even pebbles.”
