Playing Instructions

How To Play:

Shut the Box can be played with single or multiple players, however it's best enjoyed with 2-4 players. Start with all the tiles up (with numbers visible). Roll the dice inside the box. The player who rolled can flip the tiles which add up to the rolled number. For example, if the player rolls 6, the player can choose from one of the following set of tiles provided all the numbers of the set are visible and not previously covered 6, 5+1, 4+2, 1+2+3. If a tile is flipped over, it remains flipped for the duration of the game. A player can flip multiple tiles in one go as long as the numbers add up to the dice rolled. The player continues playing until no more tiles can be flipped. Then it is the next player's turn. The first player's score is determined by the sum of the numbers on the un-flipped tiles. The winner is the player who flipped over all the tiles (called Shut the Box), or the player who has the lowest score.

Other Ways To Play:

Race to Shut the Box: Each player rolls one die to determine who goes first. Players take turns rolling their two dice inside the box. Once the game begins, the player who rolls the dice can flip the tiles which add up to the rolled number. After each player's roll, it becomes the player to his/her left's turn to roll. If the player who rolled cannot flip a tile or combination of tiles adding up to the rolled number, it is the next player's turn. The first player to flip all tiles (shut the box) is the winner.

Golf: Play with the instructions above. The player to flip all tiles first scores a birdie (-1 point), at which point, all other players take one more turn. Each player then totals the numbers on the unflipped tiles to determine their score for the round. Each player's score is recorded at the end of each round. Players alternate turns rolling first at the beginning of each round. Each player's round scores are added for a total score. Once a predetermined number of rounds are played, the player with the lowest total score wins.

*For an alternate scoring method, you can count each unflipped tile as 1 rather than the number on the tile. So, a player with three tiles remaining unflipped will have a score of 3, regardless of the numbers on the unflipped tiles.
