Care and use

Lids and handles may become hot during cooking, so it is essential to always use heat-resistant oven gloves when moving or handling the cookware. Before using for the first time, hand-wash thoroughly. This cookware is designed for use on hobs only, including induction, and for optimal energy efficiency, ensure you place it on hob rings that match the base size. Avoid letting flames overlap the sides or handles, as this can cause damage. To increase the longevity of the cookware, it is recommended to use silicone, wooden, or nylon utensils, and to avoid metal utensils. Do not overheat or allow the cookware to boil dry, and never leave it unattended while in use. To prevent pitting, do not leave salty foods in the cookware either before or after cooking. When using on ceramic hobs, always lift the cookware rather than dragging it to avoid damaging the surface. Over time, screws may loosen; use a screwdriver to carefully retighten them as needed. Always allow the cookware to cool before cleaning. The cookware is safe for dishwasher use with mild detergents, but it is also suitable for hand-washing with a mild detergent and nonabrasive sponge; rinse and dry thoroughly. Do not store cookware while wet. Never expose hot cookware to cold liquid, and if there is any evidence of damage, please dispose of the cookware with care.
