

Connect your University's Integration Channels

With One Platform

Blackboard's new integration channels allow you to connect your university's existing systems to Blackboard's Learning Management System (LMS). This means you can use Blackboard's powerful LMS to manage your university's learning and teaching, while still using your existing systems for other tasks. This is a great way to save time and money, and to ensure that your university's systems are working together seamlessly.

Blackboard

Blackboard.com